AMUSEMENTS.

Estival Park Concert Last night quite a large attendance peared at Estival park. Quite a number of musical people were present, they being anxious to hear the singing of Mme. Salvotti, a lady who came here highly recommended by the press of Cincinnati, in which city she had appeared and succeeded in pleasing ever its captious musical critics. At the concerlast night Mme.Salvotti sang with full effect and was warmly applauded, and compelled to accept several encores, which she did with good grace. Her voice is a soprano of power and compass, and the lady seems to have it under complete control. Singing in the open air is a difficult test for vocalists, and it is quite different from singing in a concert-room or on the operatic stage. Mmc. Sal-votti, however, succeeded in pleasing the critical audience, and established herself as quite a favorite. The music by Arnold's band was excellent, as usual. The band rendered the difficult programme in a masterly manner. To-night and to-morrow night the concert will be repeated, with complete changes of programme, on which occasions Mme. Salvotti will appear.

An APPEAL commissioner, yesterday, visited the cotton compress at the Charleston railroad depot, and witnessed a trial of the "Drake Button Tie," a recent invention, which has been introduced this season to compete with all other iron ties in the market.

The tie is a simple button which revolves; one end of the button enters the slots in the hoop, and it is turned at once, thereby securely fastening the iron hoop around the bale in an instant. It is the simplest and, apparently, the most secure tie our commissioner has yet seen. In the trial yester, lay two hoops, containing a well-known tie, were placed on the big end of a bale in the compress, but they broke on being rolled out from the press. Our commissioner on fine arts last evening and the pleasure of examining and admiring four colored drawings of a cartoon character, the work of Mr. Carl A. Fischer. of our city. The sketches, or cartoons, represent the new drill and exercises presented by the Porter Rifles, and which are to be introduced at the next competitive contest. The sketches are briefly described, as follows: No. 1 depicts the Porter Rifles standing of each others' shoulders in pyramid and going through the bayonet exercise. The color-bearer stands on a stack of muskets, and on the flag appears a jug, with the motto, In

The sketches are gotten up in quite an artistic manner, and will be exhibited in some Main street store-window ere long. The following racy letter will be read with interest:

MEMPHIS, TENN., July 30, 1877. E. R. Loup, Esq., City: Dear Sir and Friend—You are doubt-less aware of the great interest I take in the Chickasaw Guards, to whose ranks you have the honor to belong. Many a time I have had occasion to admire your company in the magnificent execution of their maneuvers, under command of your meritorious captain and his efficient lieutenants. I was confident of your success in the competitive drill with the Porter Rifles, which was to have taken place at Huntsville, and was not a little surprised at the subterfuge used by the latter in demanding the introduction of a new feature (the bayonet exercise) into the decisive contest, which, at the two former competitive drills, had not been included. I understand that both companies have agreed to meet again on the field of competition, at the Huntsville agricultural fair, next fall, and wish to give the "Chickasaws" fair and timely warning that the "Porters" will resort to all imaginable means to carry off the prize-medal, which (as I am informed), they would most assuredly have carried off from Huntsville the last time if your first-lieutenant had not prudently taken it into safe-keeping. At a recent excursion around the world, "up in a balloon" (a la Jules Verne), we lingered for an hour over the fair city of Nashville, the seat of government of the Commonwealth of Tennessee, the home of the Porter Rifles and the site of the State. lunable asylum. State penticular and the state of the State. lunatic asylum, State penitentiary and other institutions too numerous to mention. Then and there, with powerful telescopes, we took a bird's-eye view of the drilling-grounds of the "Riffes," and beheld them engaged in the practice of new and astonishing exercises, which, although not "between the covers of Upton's Tactics," they propose to introduce at the contest next fall, and of which I succeeded in making the accompanying rough but accurate sketches.

Tableau I represents the great classical statuary pyramid drill, invented and patented by Captain Sam Donelson.

Tableau II you find a sketch of the enormous Porter Rifles and Burns's artillery combination, bombshell-fencing and bayonet exercise "on the wing," the magnificent re-sult of the combined study of the inventive genius of the commanders of the Burns ar-tillery and the lieutenants of the Porter Rifles. It will be rather difficult for the Chicka-saws to come up to such perfection, and I would advise you not to waste any time in producing those acrobatic exercises, as they are of no use for field service. For the Porter Rifles though, they are expected to become a source of great profit, as they propose to bring out these gymnastic feats in combination with their minstrel show. As to the Cnickasaws they will be left out in the cold again, and be compelled to keep the championship without the pleasure of another drill, as the Porters will again refuse to drill if their new game is not counted in. Should they, however, against all expectations, accede to a regular drill, including bayonet exercise, I am convinced that a glorious victory over them will be as easily won by "our own Chicks" as the chicks (sketch III) succeeded in destroying the Porter batteries of the modern Fort Den-elson. Having fulfilled my duty in warning you of the novelties which will be de-manded of you in the next drill, and feeling that you appreciate the maxim "forearmed, forewarned," I subscribe myself, yours very Workingmen's Demonstration. About eight o'clock yesterday evening a large crowd of workingmen assembled on Main street. Spectators, whom the late events up north had put on the qui rire watched them with eager curiosity, not unmingled with alarm, as they noticed their constantly-swelling numbers. The workingmen moved steadily and quietly, keeping per-fect order, and it could readily be inferred that they had an object in view. The nature of this objective point was a matter of spec-ulation for the bystanders, but the problem was soon solved. At a point between Adams and Jefferson the workingmen halted, and quickly took possession of the Great Western clothing-house. The genial proprietor of that far-famed establishment, well known to the workingmen as their best friend, gave them a cordial welcome, and then the "strike' began. It is needless to say that the work ingmen struck solid bargains in clothing and furnishing goods, and so ended the working-men's strike in Memphis, to be reopened ev-

THE PUBLIC IS RESPECTFULLY NOTIFIED that in consequence of the precedent established by the former company, and not wishing to make a scalest or fractional drawing, the management have made a short postponement of sixty days.
